Social and Personal

MISS FRANCES BEMISS was introduced to Richmond society last night at a lovely old-fashioned house dance given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bemiss, at their home, 111 East Grace Street. Miss Marian Skilton Gibbs, of Pennsylvania, who is spending the winter in Richmond, also made her bow to society at the dance last evening. The wide halls and parlors of the Bemiss home were decorated in pink roses against a background of palms and Southern smilax. Mr. and Mrs. Bemiss received with their daughter and Miss Gibbs. Mrs. Bemiss wore a gown of gray crepe de chine, with a corsage bouquet of violets, and Miss Bemiss wore an imported frock of white chiffon, fashioned over soft white satin. Miss Gibbs wore a white chiffon gown made over white satin. Both of the debutantes carried "grandmother" nosegays of tight pink roses and lilies of the valley, with streamers of pink chiffon.

The younger society set here was invited to meet Miss Bemiss and Miss Gibbs last evening.

Miss Taylor's Debut. Miss Elizabeth Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Porterfield Taylor, Jr., was presented to society here yesterday afternoon at a very handsome home given by her mother, Mrs. Taylor, at her home, 1101 Grove Avenue, from 5 to 7 o'clock. About 100 guests, which included the younger society set in Richmond, were asked to meet Miss Taylor.

The parlors were decorated in a color scheme of yellow and white, which was very effectively carried out in chrysanthemums. The doorways and windows were draped in Southern smilax and palms, and ferns formed a background for the receiving party which stood in the drawing-room. In the dining-room red roses banked the mantel, and a centerpiece of Richmond roses decorated the tea table. Candles were shaded in crimson and silver, and smaller vases of scarlet flowers were also on the table.

Mrs. Taylor received in a handsome gown of black net made over old rose satin and wore violets. Miss Taylor

In the presence of a large company of distinguished guests and relatives at high noon yesterday, the marriage of Miss Lucie Kitchi Dunnington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gray Dunnington, and Edward Southard Shields, son of Colonel and Mrs. William T. The ceremony took place in the parlors of "Poplar Hill," the big "country" place of the bride's parents in Prince Edward county, and quantities of yellow and white flowers decorated the whole house for the occasion. The walls were hung with smilax and white blossoms and garlands of yellow and white chrysanthemums were hung on the banisters of the staircase and over the doorways. Palms and lighted candles and masses of fragrant white flowers were used on an improvised altar at one end of the long drawing-room, and the table of the dining-room was set with a long oval of yellow and white chrysanthemums.

TO KEEP UP FIGHT FOR WATERWAYS

National Rivers and Harbors Congress Will Meet in Washington Next Week.

New Orleans, La., November 28.—Congressman J. E. Ransdell, president of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, will leave for Washington to-morrow to assist in the preparations for the eighth annual convention to be held in that city December 6-8.

"It is of the greatest importance for the success of the national waterway movement," he said to-day, "that a large and enthusiastic convention be held in Washington next month. We have the greatest cause for encouragement from the rapid progress made since our organization began active work six years ago. At that time less than $20,000,000 per annum was being expended for all the great water courses of this republic, while now the annual appropriations exceed $30,000,000. If the present Congress continues for the next two years the same wise policy adopted by its predecessors, the success of our waterways movement will be well established."

"But we must not be too sanguine yet awhile. The Democratic party, in power in the House of Representatives for the first time in sixteen years, is committed to a policy of economic retrenchment and reform in public expenditures, and in hearty accord and sympathy with these views, but would deem it most unwise for my party to turn backward as far as the improvement of our waterways is concerned."

"While we have every cause for congratulation on past results, and the goal of our hopes is almost within sight, we have not yet won the battle and must continue our efforts with vigor and determination."

Slack-Yancey. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] South Boston, Va., November 28.—"Live Oaks," the historic home of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Henry Yancey, being home-stayed in South Boston and surrounded by a cluster of huge oaks, was the scene of a pretty marriage at 2:30 o'clock this morning, when their daughter, Miss Byrd Mae Yancey, became the wife of Francis Marion Elliott, of New York, the Rev. J. R. Dean of the Baptist Church, performing the ceremony. The parlor was decorated with palms, ferns and flowers, and the color scheme being pink and green. Mrs. Yancey's "Wedding March" was rendered by Mrs. Charles T. Yancey, who also softly played "Love and Friendship" during the ceremony. Just before the bride party entered Walter P. Yancey, of Lynchburg, sang "The Hour That Gave Me You."

The bride was attired in a handsome tailored suit of navy blue cloth, with hat and gloves to match, her only ornament being a diamond brooch, a gift of the groom, and her flowers were a huge bouquet of Katherine roses. The bride's sister, Mrs. Samuel P. Gilliland, was dame of honor, and was gowned in velvet and carried pink chrysanthemums. Charles T. Yancey, brother of the bride, was best man. The bride was given away by her father.

Miss Yancey, who is a striking brunette, is of Welsh-English descent, and is well known throughout the State. She is the granddaughter of the late Captain E. B. Jeffress, "The Father of South Boston." The groom is now with a leading New York firm.

After an extensive honeymoon trip to the principal Northern cities, at 8 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott will be at home to their friends in Richmond after December 10, 720 South Third Street.

DASHED TO DEATH IN MILL ACCIDENT. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Newbern, N. C., November 28.—A horrible accident occurred at J. B. Lee & Sons' cotton gin at Arapahoe this afternoon, in which one young man lost his life and another, who tried to save him, was badly injured. In some way James Bennett, the twenty-year-old son of J. B. Bennett, of that place, who was employed at the cotton gin, became entangled in the shafting of the gin, and was whirled around for a number of times. The engine was brought to a standstill as soon as possible, and the mangled remains of the unfortunate young man taken from the shafting. One leg was completely torn from his body and the other one was barely hanging. The young man lived for about three-quarters of an hour. After the accident John Rawls, another employee at the gin, attempted to rescue Mr. Bennett, and was so badly injured that he required the attention of a physician.

DECLARES JAIL SYSTEM WRONG

Interesting Discussions Before Conference of Charities and Correction.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Roanoke, Va., November 28.—The ninth annual meeting of the Virginia Conference of Charities and Correction came to an end to-night. The sessions of the conference have been most interesting, and the result of the discussions satisfactory. Following the discussion of general matters to-night, the reports of the standing committees were heard.

"The Jail and Its People" was discussed. W. H. Whitaker, superintendent of the District of Columbia prison farm, who was expected and announced to speak, was absent, unavoidably. "The Drunkard in Jail" was the topic of the Rev. W. A. Cooper, of Lynchburg, and he gave a most forceful and interesting lecture. He said that while some men believe in the survival of the fittest, he believed in the survival of the worst and making them fit. He favors a farm for the habitual drunkard, to be maintained by the State.

Dr. J. C. King, superintendent of the Southwestern State Hospital, discussed "Insane in Jails" and the effects of other prisoners, and urged that the subject be taken up by the next Legislature.

Dr. H. H. Hart said that he had inspected the jail in this city and found it cleaner and in better condition than most city jails, but that nearly all jail systems are wrong. "When the International Prison Conference was held in Washington, D. C., in October, 1910," he said, "the foreign delegates approved our plan of parole, but condemned our jails and our manner of dealing with first offenders, which is a hundred years behind the time."

The following committee on jails of the Virginia conference on the purpose of collecting information, the best methods of construction, best policy of administration, and to advise the cities contemplating building or changing their jails: Dr. W. C. Campbell, A. B. Williams, D. S. Freeman, Dr. H. H. Hart, J. T. Martin, R. K. Flannagan, W. T. Dreyer.
